

ABSTRACT:

Receivers for receiving AM signals normally use many elements which are not integrable. This results in high costs and bulky circuits.

Proposed is to use switched capacitors in the RF stage of such a receiver, which results in reducing the external elements to a great extend.

5

Fig. 2